Breaking the Multigenerational Cycle of Alcoholism Our Children need a Safe Environment

Early in my first marriage I could easily rationalize all of my alcoholic behaviors. These things meant nothing to me, at the time, but that all changed the day that I became a father. It didn't change my behavior but it did affect my conscience. From that day forward I felt guilty about my inability to be a good father and as the result, my only son developed problems as bad as, or worse than mine. My wife and I separated and were divorced within two years of his birth and I got sober one year after that and have been sober ever since. My current wife of forty eight years and I have done everything we could to be supportive of my first wife and my son from a distance and as he turned ten years old, she asked us if we would take custody of him, since she was still having difficulties of her own and we understood and gladly accepted her offer. This was the right thing to do but it didn't solve my son's problem. He was damaged and the die was cast. He struggled with drugs and alcohol problems into his late forties and is now in the program, sober for seven years and doing well. From this experience and from the observation of the newer members that come to us in the midst of a divorce or a marriage influenced by alcohol or drugs, the children are often emotionally damaged and have very little chance of evolving into healthy adults.

Some of the symptoms I've read about are as follows: Children of alcoholics endure chronic and extreme levels of tension and stress. At times, children of alcoholics may begin to feel as though they are responsible for the problems and are likely to developing problems with drugs and alcohol themselves. These are just a few of the things that I and my family have experienced firsthand and it was not a pretty sight.

There were many sleepless night in sobriety wondering where my son was and fearing the worst.

It took many years of anguish before he finally surrendered and we finally had some peace of mind. My experience concerning this situation is to give some perspective on this matter in order to minimize the emotional damage to the children when the parents either divorce or reconcile their marriage.

Divorces are messy with the pain and disappointment of a failed relationship and my divorce was no different. Fortunately for us, I realized that my child would be witness to how I treated his mom and from that day foreword I have not been critical about her in or out of his presence. I only talk understanding and compassion and I taught him that same principle, and in time, she came around to the same way of thinking, and we all moved on with grace. When my grandson was born, the same thing happened when his mom and dad separated and my wife and I had a the chance to provide virtually all of his day-care, and we had the opportunity to shield him from most of the trauma by providing him with a safe environment, with love and comfort, explaining to him that they were good people but they have problems and we cannot judge them but we can help them when they are ready. The main thing was the safe environment part. We had the opportunity to walk him through these things with compassion and understanding. I am happy to say that he just completed his first year of college at the age nineteen with virtually no signs of emotional damage, no drugs or alcohol, no smoking of any kind and very mature. He talks to us freely about any and all subjects.

We can break the cycle but we must get our priorities straight as soon as possible, consider the damage to our children, put the past behind us and we must be strong enough to forgive. Every minute counts if we want to break the cycle.

*Every AA group ought to be fully self-supporting,
declining outside contributions.*

As active alcoholics we were always looking for a handout—
in one way or another.

Part of our
personal recovery
came in making ourselves into financially
responsible
human beings.

Experience
has also shown us that AA as a whole needs
to be self-supporting and independent.

*The lure of money has led many astray.
It could happen to us.*

*So, we avoid the conflicts that big money brings and budget
according to our basic needs.*

*In short, the irresponsible
have become responsible!*

*Which is why we,
as individuals, must
meet our responsibility
when the basket
is passed at meetings.*

MY ANSWER WAS NOT ON THE WALL

During my first sober months I was "just surviving" on the first three steps; the obsession to drink plagued me every day—repeating the Third Step prayer helped but provided only temporary escape while I obsessively attended AA meetings. I began to preface my prayers with the number of days I had been sober. I believe this helped keep me in focus. However, the terrifying obsession was constant. I was doing the Twelve Steps "off the wall" (Like on pages 59 & 60) which, of course is only a summary; sort of like the Table of Contents of a book—not the actual clear-cut-directions. I was surviving on the fellowship (untreated alcoholism) and a false understanding of the Twelve Steps.

I thought I was living the AA Steps, but I was not!

Fortunately, I remained dry for five months, but then I marched into a bar and almost ordered a drink—happily I didn't! Terrified, I asked a new sponsor, Carl, for help and he immediately took me through the Steps directly from the Big Book!

At Step Three I asked God to relieve me of the bondage of self (of course, I had no idea what that was!), but Carl started me on Step Four at once before I had time to change my mind or "think things over." Upon completion of Step Four I came to realize that the basic nature of my bondage of self was rooted in selfishness, dishonesty, resentment and fear. I also learned to use the Big Book tools to face and be rid of these destructive ingredients. After Step Five, I knew exactly what to ask God to remove in Steps Six and Seven (after all, it was on paper right in front of me). We then discussed making amends.

Yet, the obsession persisted.

Carl informed me that although learning the AA program of action may provide a certain relief, the necessary release from the obsession happens only when put in action with the doing of Steps Ten, Eleven and Twelve. Carl was right—I haven't had to drink since!

CONCEPT SEVEN

The Conference recognizes that the Charter and the Bylaws of the General Service Board are legal instruments: that the Trustees are thereby fully empowered to manage and conduct all of the world service affairs of Alcoholics Anonymous. It is further understood that the Conference Charter itself is not a legal document: that it relies instead upon the force of tradition and the power of the A.A. purse for its final effectiveness.
